Phase 1 Network Update

Installation of fiber on poles began in Creston last week! Another milestone, a long-awaited permit to suspend fiber over BNSF tracks in Harrington, has been approved & will bring Harrington's build closer to completion. The next step in the process is building a colocation facility within each of Phase 1's three towns. This is where ISPs will access county fiber to serve customers within each community. That project is scheduled to begin the week of October 25th in Almira.

This broadband project update brought to you by the Lincoln County Economic Development Council

Congratulations, Lincoln County!

The recipe for providing our customers with a great internet experience starts with quality people. Then we blend world-class routing and switching equipment along with continuous training to bring our customers the best experience. Our focus is to nurture technical teams that learn together and create support teams that never lose sight of the customer and their needs.

We are proud to retain our customers at a rate more than three times the industry average.

We insist on providing you with a top-of-the-line wifi6, routing and firewall device. You control your internal network from an app on your smartphone. If you have a problem, our help desk team connects with this device so together, we can see where any problems might occur. By extending our network into your home, we ensure rock solid internet, all the time.

Customers matter. Start with dedicated people who are passionate about their craft. At Intermax we have hired almost a third of our staff as they graduate from the IT program at North Idaho College. They can build a highly rewarding career here and the number of “lifers” we have on staff shows the success of treating everyone just as you would like to be treated. Of course, that extends to our customers. From our help desk to our installers, our network engineering and fiber teams, everyone here is dedicated to your success. We strive to provide you with the help you need to get connected, start streaming TV and video, connect to the office, and connect to the world!

Connections matter. We connect to thousands of providers at a “meet me” room in Seattle. When you put a packet on our network, it travels from your network to ours and from ours directly to a switch in Seattle that also holds sites from all the top content delivery networks, big vendors like Google, Microsoft, AWS, Netflix, Disney. In fact, over two thirds of our traffic never actually travel the “wild” internet, instead, it goes directly to where you sent it. In our game, milliseconds matter.

You must have a team that is nuts for all-nighters. The fact is, you cannot upgrade and maintain the network when people are relying on it. You must have talented network engineers that want to work all night and then hang in there to make sure everything works when people start using it in the morning.

Design matters. Network design aimed at resiliency, capacity and speed creates the backbone of your internet experience. Our network runs in circles. Circles of connection that protect you from single points of failure, circles of support to provide you with a great experience.

Help Desk matters. When you are having an issue, nothing beats a conversation with a helpful, knowledgeable person who can solve the problem. Over 85% of incoming issues get resolved on the phone by our Coeur d’Alene help desk team. Our team is so good other companies pay us to support their networks. These people are the foundation of the great relationships we hope to build with you.

Sincerely,

Pat Whalen
VP and Chief Technical Officer
