What affects my energy bill in winter?

40375

During the winter, your energy bill can differ from one month to the next for a lot of reasons. A sudden cold snap may occur which requires your heating system to run more frequently. Fewer daylight hours mean your lights are on for longer periods. Having kids at home for school vacations and guests stay over the holidays can affect the amount of energy you use each month, as well. Learn what else impacts your winter bill and better manage your costs using our helpful online tools. Go to myavista.com/winterbill
