LAKE ROOSEVELT NATIONAL RECREATION AREA ANNOUNCES PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT PERIOD FOR Seven Bays Marina Rehabilitation

Environmental Assessment
The National Park Service at Lake Roosevelt National Recreation Area announces a revised public comment period for the Seven Bays Marina Rehabilitation Environmental Assessment (EA). The new open date will be February 9, 2024. The original public comment period has shifted due to an internal process error. The EA outlines a range of feasible project alternatives, including a no action alternative, and analyzes the environmental effects of each alternative.

The National Park Service is working to improve site amenities at Seven Bays Marina in an effort to provide a safer and more accessible park facility for the public. [The NPS proposes to rehabilitate site amenities by replacing the existing dock system, improving traffic flow (pedestrian and vehicles) and parking, improving the boat fueling systems at the marina, and creating safer and more accessible lake access.] The proposed action has been developed to improve accessibility of amenities throughout the site, to enhance visitor safety, and to improve the overall efficiency of park operations.

As one of the busiest concessions-operated marinas and boat launches for transient boaters on the lake, these improvements are critical and will also address deferred maintenance in the park. The rehabilitation is planned for 2025 and/or 2026.

The public review and comment period for the EA will open February 9 and end on March 10, 2024. The public can access and comment on the EA document online through the Planning Environment and Public Comment (PEPC) website: parkplanning.nps.gov/sevenbaysmarina
