History Bits: In 1929 the first neon sign to be erected in Davenport was placed in front of the Lincoln Hotel and Café. In March 1981, the hotel burned down in a fire thought to have started in the café. The site was eventually cleared and the Laurence Jayne Gazebo now graces the spot.

LINCOLN COUNTY VOTERS

The Primary Election is behind us. Lincoln County had a 64% turn out, which for a Primary, is very good. But we can do better. We have work to do.

Ballots for the General Election go in the mail on October 14.
That means, in about 6 weeks we will begin to vote again.

Some states vote earlier than Washington State, and we'll start to hear predictions and poll data that's meant to influence us. Don't listen to it. Their data, predictions and guesses are just that, guesses.

Nationally, and within Washington State, there's a lot at stake. There are elements in our culture that are working hard to disturb and upend our way of life. Be careful where you get your news, facts, and don't buy into rumors and lies.

This next election will be about voter turnout - nationally, and especially in WA State. Are you registered to vote? Does the County have your current address so you will get your ballot? If you know someone who isn't registered, have you talked to them about getting registered? Voter turnout is key to winning in November.

The Lincoln County Republican Central Committee will put information in the paper as the weeks go by, updating you on current events, trends and things to know. We will give you our recommended list of candidates to vote for. If you have any questions contact one of us or FFI Mary Blechschmidt, 253-335-7032.

VOTE your BALLOT!! VOTE your BALLOT!! VOTE your BALLOT!!

THANK YOU. I wish to thank the following people and organizations for their help on July 16 when my wife, Donna Erickson, suffered a cardiac arrest. The lady at 911 dispatch coached me and got me back in the game. The Sheriff's department showed up in a couple of minutes and took command of the situation. A couple of minutes later the Lincoln Hospital EMT's arrived and provided their expertise. They worked on Donna until they had regained a pulse. They then bundled her up and took her to the Emergency Room. When I arrived at ER they had already called for Life Flight and were preparing her for the flight. She was flown to Sacred Heart, where I caught up with her again. She spent a couple days in CICU. Then a week in cardiac care. She then was transferred to St. Luke's for recovery and rehab.

I owe all these people and organizations a lot that I will never be able to repay. I cannot remember all your names, but I will never forget what you have given me.

THE HEAT IS PRETTY "RUFF" ON PETS

According to state law (RCW 16.52.340), it is against the law for anyone to "leave or confine any animal in unattended motor vehicle or enclosed space". A person can be charged with animal cruelty in the first degree or second degree for doing so because "the animal could be harmed or killed by exposure to excessive heat, cold, lack of ventilation, or lack of necessary water." If you are caught breaking this law, your ticket penalty may be $125 dollars.

It is recommended that if you see an animal trapped in a hot car, you first try to find the owner of the car. If that is not possible, call 911. Keep in mind that in Washington state, you are not allowed to break someone else's car window. Only law enforcement is legally allowed to do that!

WORKING WA SMALL BUSINESS EMERGENCY GRANTS – Round 2

Apply now for new emergency grants available to local small businesses. Up to $10,000 is available for Lincoln County businesses with up to 20 employees to support COVID-related response and recovery

The Lincoln County Economic Development Council is accepting applications for emergency grants for businesses with up to 20 employees in Lincoln County. Grant money can be used to assist with a variety of expenses related to the impact from COVID-19.

Grant funds are available to businesses that submit an application on or before September 21.

To learn more and to access an application, visit www.LincolnEDC.org/covid-19/ or email Margie@LincolnEDC.org or call 509-368-7085.

Funding for the program is from the state's Working Washington Small Business program and federal Coronavirus Assistance, Recovery and Economic Security (CARES) Act funds to help with COVID-19 response and recovery efforts across Washington State.

"The length and depth of the pandemic have hit small, main street businesses hard," said Washington State Department of Commerce Director Lisa Brown. "In particular, restaurants, hotels and other service industries have not seen the expected number of customers. Small businesses need these resources to stay open as we respond to the public health crisis and help get people back to work."

Commerce partnered with the Lincoln County Economic Development Council and the 34 other local economic development organizations statewide to make a new tranche of $10 million in Working Washington Small Business Emergency grants available. Applications and administration of the new funds are run by the local organizations that serve all 39 counties. The Washington State Department of Commerce is not accepting or reviewing applications, this will be done by the local economic development organizations.
